Stewardship Reflections...

"For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son..." - John 3:16

Of all the wonderful gifts that God has given to us, the gift of His own Son is truly the greatest. How can we ever thank God for a gift like that? God does not ask us to sacrifice our own precious firstborn, but He does ask that we are grateful and generous with our God-given gifts. That we nurture and develop our gifts, and in gratitude, generously give back with increase our time in prayer, our talent in charitable works and our treasure to support the mission and ministry of our parish and greater Church.

"Tanto amó Dios al mundo, que no dudó en entregarle a su Hijo Único..." - Juan 3:16

De todos los dones maravillosos que Dios nos ha dado, el don de su propio Hijo es verdaderamente el mayor. ¿Cómo podremos agradecerle a Dios por un regalo como ese? Dios no nos pide sacrificar nuestros preciosos primogénitos, pero nos pide que seamos agradecidos y generosos con los dones que hemos recibido de Él. Que cuidemos y desarrollemos nuestros dones, y en gratitud y generosidad los demos de vuelta aumentando nuestro tiempo de oración, nuestro talento en obras de caridad y nuestros tesoros para apoyar la misión y el ministerio de nuestra parroquia, y de la Iglesia en general.

God, through the Holy Spirit, gifts us with artistic outlets to express beauty - MUSIC is one of those outlets. Come to the mini retreat, designed specifically for adults, to explore this gift filled with the Spirit and how we can more deeply appreciate and access its full range of beauty in our life for prayer and worship.

May the souls of all the faithful departed rest in peace.

Using Post-it notes, write down the names of all the people in your lives that you love (each name on its own post-it) and place them in a jar or on a board. Take a name out each day, and spend time letting that person know how much they are loved by your family and why. It can be a phone call, text, note, facetime, or visit; take a few moments each day to share love.

Comfort the Sorrowful – A Consideration of the Fourth Spiritual Work of Mercy

MAY 19, 2015 BY MSGR. CHARLES POPE

But of all the spiritual works of mercy, comforting the sorrowful requires the greatest patience, sensitivity, and also silence. This is because sorrow (or grief) often has a life and logic of its own; often it must be allowed to run its course. Sometimes there is not a lot a person can say or do when grief is present. Grief is something we can rarely get around; we must simply go through it. Thus, comforting or consoling the sorrowful and grieving people in our life often involves a kind of silent and understanding accompaniment more so than words or actions. To listen and give understanding attention often provides the greatest value.

If one notices a person getting “stuck” in his grief, not making the progress of moving through it in stages, more will be needed—but not right away. People need time and room to grieve. Some take longer than others, and there is no single “right” way to grieve. To comfort and console requires a sensitivity on our part that seeks to discover what the person needs, on his terms, not ours. If there are signs of true depression, or a serious lack of progress, this may be an indication that we should become more active in our comforting and consoling, perhaps getting the person out for activities or even recommending professional help.

In terms of caring for the sorrowful, we rightly think of giving comfort in the modern, English sense of the term. However, the word “comfort” in terms of its older, root meaning, involves something more vigorous than merely giving comfort. The Latin roots are cum (with) + fortis (strong, or strength). Thus to comfort someone, in its older etymological roots, means to strengthen him.

Help FROM THE Saints...

Say this little prayer to St Anthony of Padua to help you be a better steward of comforting the sorrowful!

Dear St Anthony, comforting the sorrowful is a Christian duty and a work of mercy. By word, attitude, and deed I should try to brighten their days and make their burden easier to bear. St Anthony, Consoler of the Afflicted, may I remember when helping someone in sorrow that I am helping Christ Himself. Kindly mention my pressing needs to Him.

When You Suffer

Biblical Keys for Hope and Understanding
Jeff Cavins | via Dynamic Catholic

To be human is to suffer—physically, emotionally, and spiritually. In addition to our own suffering, we also encounter the suffering of those around us. When You Suffer is a refreshing look at the mystery of pain and suffering and how to find meaning and even joy in the midst of it. Jeff Cavins discusses why we suffer and how our suffering can draw us closer to God. He explains that suffering is the greatest opportunity to love as Christ loves and how, by “offering up” our suffering, we join in Christ’s mission to redeem the world.

Here are a few ways to comfort a friend or loved one who is going through a time of sadness or loneliness...

PHONE A FRIEND!

A text is nice, but a phone call can be even better. Call to check in and let them know you are thinking of them. No answer? Don’t forget to leave a voicemail! This seemingly small gesture could brighten a day more than you know.

TAKE A WALK!

Fresh air and conversation (or even silent company along the way) is good for the soul. Suggest going for a walk, and together, take in the beauty of God’s creation all around you.

PRAY, PRAY, PRAY!

Remember those who are suffering in your daily prayers. Ask God to provide them with the strength to get through a period of grief and/or sorrow. And remember, it never hurts to tell someone you are keeping them in your prayers...

JUST LISTEN!

If a person is experiencing a loss, you can help by listening with a compassionate ear! Being there and being present is what counts.

MAKE A PLAN!

Think of an outing or activity that you can do together... it could be as simple as a coffee shop chat, watching a game together, or perhaps a day trip to a new place! Having something to look forward to can be a sense of comfort in itself!

BE PATIENT!

Perhaps you have tried several times to reach out to no avail... don’t give up! Even if the person declines your invitation, the fact that you care enough to keep asking can be impactful. And one day, they will be in a better place to accept!
